MESSAGE

I am happy to learn that the Draupadi Rehabilitation Empowerment Awareness Medi-care Trust is organising a Seminar on "Mainstreaming and enhancing women's Political participation – the way Ahead" on August 30, 2008.

Education of women is a very important tool for their empowerment. Educated women can contribute towards the development of a good family, a compassionate society, a progressive nation and a more tolerant world. It should be our objective to give women opportunities in the economic, social and political fields through women's participation in Panchayati Raj. This objective can only be achieved by involving women in the mainstream of political activities.

On this occasion I extend my greetings and felicitations to all those associated with the Trust and wish the Seminar every success.
